ORDERED,

HAT the PRESENTMENTS of the GRAND-JURY, at this Sessions, be with published in the several GAZETTES of this Province.

By the Court,

JAMES JOHNSTON, C. C. & P.

TH-CAROLINA.

e PRESENTMENTS,

OF THE

RAND-JURORS

For the Body of this Province,

Court of General Sessions of the Peace, Oyer and Terminer, ze and General Goal Delivery, begun and holden at ARLES-TOWN, on MONDAY the 20th Day of JANUARY, Thousand Seven Hundred and Seventy-two.

E present, as a Grievance, the want of creditable Persons to act as Magistrates; such Persons in general holding that Commission only to exempt them from rendering other Services for the Good of their Country, and by which the Execution of Justice is often entrusted with partial, unjust, trading Justices, to the great Hurt of honest good Men, rtful to the Province in general.

That sufficient Regard is not had to the Character of len who are entrusted with the Commission of the Peace, ppears by again impowering a present acting Justice, ke Bull, who was some Time ago deprived of that Com- from his bad Practices, publickly confessed by himself.

We present, as a Grievance, the Office of Constables in the Execution of Persons of a mean low Character, Poverty and Ignorance subject them to take Bribes, by Villains do often escape Justice.

We present, as a Grievance, the general Neglect of the Officers, in not mustering the Militia according to Law; hat the Patrol-Acts are not properly enforced.

e present, as a Grievance, the great Number of Dram- d Tippling-Houses in Charles-Town, such as entertain and other disorderly Persons; and recommend, that istrates would be more vigilant in suppressing such Pests y.

We present, as a Grievance, the general bad State of lic Roads throughout the Province, and the Road be- harles-Town and the Quarter-House in particular; and end Toll-Bridges as a proper Means to have them kept r Order in future.

We present, as a very great Grievance, the disorderly icur of the Town-Watch, by which they defeat the good intended of watching and preserving the Property of the ple and Town from Harm; instead whereof they are become y great Nuisance by beating and abusing Negroes sent on ds by their Masters with Tickets, and letting others escape ave none; by which Irregularities the Negroes in general egard them, and if they can but raise the Sum of Ten gs to pay for their Release, are not afraid of being out ht.

We present, as a Grievance, the erecting of Booths in h-Way in the Time of the Races, as being very dange- Persons travelling thereon in the Night.

We present, as a Grievance, Negroes being allowed to , and carry Fire-Arms contrary to Law.

TO BE SOLD,

On Thursday the 2d of April next, at the new Vendue-House, to the highest Bidder,

A DECKED SCHOONER,

LATE the Property of Mrs. MARY BULL, deceased, Burthen 120 Barrels of Rice; well found with Sails, Rigging and Anchors, and was built about six or seven years ago, of the best Materials.

SAMUEL PRIOLEAU, jun. & Co.

A QUANTITY of SILVER SHOE and KNEE BUCKLES, at Forty-nine Shillings and Nine-pence per Ounce, a Consignment of SILVER TANKARDS, at Fifty Shillings per Ounce, to be sold by DOWNES & LEE.

SUPPOSED to have lost himself at the dividing road near Serjeant Campbell's, on his way to my plantation at the Congarees, about the first of February last, a negro man, named

ROGER,

Who can speak tolerable good English, and has been in this province eight or ten years; he lately belonged to Mrs. MARY BULL, of Prince William's parish, deceased. Any person who will deliver him to Col. WILLIAM THOMSON, at the Congarees, or to me in Charles-Town, shall be well rewarded.

MILES BREWTON.

CHARLES-TOWN, JANUARY 23, 1772.

ABSENTED herself from my Service about a Fortnight ago, a NEGRO WENCH named BETTY, whom I lately purchased from Mr. John Boone; she is a slim made little Wench with a sour look, artful and sensible, well known in Town and Country, having a numerous Stock of Relations, by some of whom I suppose she is secreted; and I do hereby offer a Reward of TWENTY POUNDS to a free Person, and TEN POUNDS to a Slave, to be paid on Conviction of the Offender, upon Information by whom she is harboured; and if she should be harboured by a white Person, double of the above Reward will be given to the Informer, being determined to spare no Expence in prosecuting such Pests to Society.

If she returns to me of her own Accord, within ten Days from the Date of this Advertisement, her Offence will be forgiven.

BRIAN CAPE.

THE subscriber intending next spring to remove his slaves to the southward, upon proper lands for the culture of indico and provisions, will now sell his valuable RICE PLANTATION, in St. Paul's parish, distant about 28 miles from Charles-Town, and close upon a landing, where boats of any burthen may load: It is divided into two tracts, the one containing about 730 acres, the other upwards of 1700 acres; the first has near 190 acres of good rice land, with a sufficientcy of good corn land, and best of pine timber, with two reservoirs of back water, and a sufficient quantity of rice and corn land inclosed to plant a crop the present year: the other has at least 400 acres of rice land, with good reservoirs of back water, and a large quantity of fine pine timber, with corn land and good pastures in plenty; and as no tar has been made on any part of the land, a good deal of money may be made by that article, the whole of the pine land being thickly covered with light-wood. If either of the tracts is bought now soon, the first will be sold for eight pounds the acre, and the latter for nine pounds the acre, round; or if the whole be taken at once, (letting me plant my crop this year on the larger tracts, and have the use till January next of the buildings) the purchaser may have it for eight pounds the acre round throughout the whole, which as it contains 2456 acres, will amount to 19648 pounds, at least 6000 pounds under its real value.

Also for SALE, my STONO PLANTATION, pleasantly situated on Stono river, containing 281 acres, of which about 50 is pretty rice land, and the remainder fine corn and indico land, not above 40 acres of the whole cleared, the remainder in wood of oak, hickory, &c. &c. &c. and one other TRACT joining lands of Mr. Stiles, containing about 600 acres, near one half prime corn and indico land, and thickly covered with the best of firewood, near to a landing.——Any reasonable credit will be allowed. Such as desire to purchase, may apply to

FRANCIS YONGE.

THE subscriber intending to depart the province some time in April next, and purposing to be gone two or three months, the business in his absence will be carried on by his nephew, GEORGE HARRIS, and will be obliged to his friends for the continuance of their custom. He desires all persons that have any demands against him, to send them in to receive payment; and all those that are indebted to him, are requested to be speedy in discharging the same.——He hath to dispose of, two likely strong young NEGRO FELLOWS, that have been between four and five years at the carpenter's business, and a strong hearty fellow who is a labourer; they will suit a country gentleman. Any person in want of such, may apply to

JOSEPH VERREE.

To be sold for no fault,

TWO stout young NEGRO MEN; one of whom is a complete a blacksmith as any in the province, and well known to several tradesmen in town for his qualities; the other is a good plain cook, and very handy in a house, in a boat, or to attend as a waiting man, occasionally. The said negroes would not be disposed of, had not their owner been obliged to part with them, in order to raise a sum of money to settle with his creditors.——Enquire of the printer.

JAMES DAVIS, informs me of a chesnut bay GELDING, with a bald face, his mane and tail grey, about 3 years old, and 13 hands high, branded on the mounting shoulder I, and off shoulder something resembling like thus 3. The owner must prove his property, at Orangeburgh, before

LEWIS GOLSAN, J. P.

The SUBSCRIBER,

HAVING taken the House in King-street, lately occupied by Mr. MICHAEL KALTEISEN, and known by the Sign of the CROWN, which is admirably calculated to accommodate Country Gentlemen, and provided with Stabling for near FIFTY HORSES, for whom the best of PROVENDER will always be got; hath this Day opened the same as

A N I N N,

And will be obliged to Country Gentlemen and others for their Company, who may always be assured of the best Lodgings, Provisions, and Liquors, diligent Attendance, kind Treatment, and a hearty Welcome, from

Their most obedient humble Servant,

JOHN HATFIELD.

PROPOSALS

FOR PUBLISHING BY SUBSCRIPTION,

A MAP of the INTERIOR PARTS OF NORTH-AMERICA.

By THOMAS HUTCHINS, Lieutenant in His Majesty's Royal American Regiment, and Engineer.

THIS MAP comprehends the whole Country that lies between the 36th and 49th degrees of latitude and the 79th and 94th degrees of longitude; in which the great rivers of Missisippi and Ohio, with the numerous smaller streams, which empty into them, as well as the Lakes Erie, Huron and Michigan, are accurately delineated; every considerable town of the various Indian Nations, who inhabit these regions, with the extent of their respective claims, are also particularly pointed out.

This MAP contains an extent of more than eight hundred miles in length, and nearly seven hundred in breadth, which is not excelled, hardly equalled by any country on the face of the earth for its beauty and the fertility of its soil, and which must soon become a most important and very interesting part of the British empire in America.—The Author assures the Public, that a great part of the country and most of the rivers and lakes are laid down from surveys, corrected by the observation of latitudes, carefully executed by himself, on the campaigns he had the honour of serving during the whole of the last war, and the department he has been constantly employed in since the final treaty with the western and northern Indians in 1764.

This MAP, which is delineated on a scale of twenty miles to an inch, shall be neatly engraved, and accompanied with an analysis, or a particular description of the face of the country, its lakes, rivers, timber, soil and climate.—The whole to be ready for delivery as soon as the Subscribers amount to a number adequate to defray the unavoidable expence of the publication.

As the Author has been particularly requested by a number of gentlemen to undertake and publish this MAP, and one hundred subscribers are already engaged, he wishes, for the purpose of more speedily accomplishing the design (and as the work is meant and intended for the general benefit, and information of His Majesty's good subjects) that those in SOUTH-CAROLINA who may think proper to encourage it, will as soon as possible, send their names to PETER TIMOTHY, Printer in Charles-Town.

To be LET, and entered on Immediately,

THE HOUSE and SHOP in New-Church-street, lately occupied by Mr. WILLIAM EDWARDS, Sadler. For other Particulars, apply to ATKINS & WESTON.

St. Paul's Parish, January 24th, 1772.

MR. WILLIAM GIBSON, tells before me, a young unbroke BAY HORSE, (which is very troublesome to Mr. McQueen's Plantation) between Twelve or Thirteen Hands high, and about Four Years old, branded on the mounting Shoulder S, and a blotched Brand near it that cannot be made out, he has a small Snip on his Nose, a small Star on his Forehead, and one of his hind Hoofs white. The owner must prove his Property, before me

ANDREW LEITCH, J. P.

AN OVERSEER who understands making INDICO as well as RICE, who is sprightly, sober, and industrious, is wanted to take Charge of a Plantation near Charles-Town, with about Twenty good Hands.—Such a one, bringing a good Character, and applying soon to the Printer hereof, will meet with suitable Encouragement.

THE Subscriber begs Leave to acquaint the Gentlemen and Ladies, that she has taken the HOUSE opposite NEW MARKET COURSE, where she keeps Tea, Coffee, &c. and the best of Liquors and Relishes may be had,

From their Humble Servant,

ANN HAWES.

A Diſſertation on the GOUT, and all Chronic Diſeaſes, jointly conſidered as proceeding from the ſame Cauſes, and a rational and natural Method of cure propoſed: By WILLIAM CADOGAN, Fellow of the College of Phyſicians.

AS the ſubject of this little work is of great importance, and the manner in which it is treated in many reſpects, new, we ſhall, without ſcruple, allow it a much greater proportion of the ſpace allotted to an account of literary productions, than to other performances of much greater bulk. The author's view is to undeceive mankind, who form groundleſs hopes of permanent relief, merely from medicine, and to turn their attention from the deluſions of art, to the realities of nature: and it is nothing more than a haſty extract of a much larger work, intended to take in the whole circle of chronical diſeaſes, which are here comprehended only in their repreſentative the Gout.

The author's firſt principle is, that diſeaſes, at leaſt chronical diſeaſes, are not natural to us, but brought on by miſtakes or exceſſes in our manner of life, or paſſions not ſufficiently regulated or reſtrained, and therefore, that if health, when impaired by theſe cauſes can be reſtored, it muſt be not by medicine, the effects of which are momentary, and the frequent repetition of which is deſtructive, but by gently calling forth the powers of the body to act for themſelves, introducing gradually a little more and more activity, choſen diet, and above all, peace of mind, changing entirely the courſe of life which firſt brought on the diſeaſe: medicine co-operating a little. By this method, he ſuppoſes health may be reſtored in all caſes that are not abſolutely mortal.

The author has from the materials which are collected for his general work, ſelected what relates to the Gout, "becauſe, ſays "he, I think myſelf particularly called upon at this time to "ſay ſomething of that diſeaſe, as I ſee now ſo many, and hear "of more, who are throwing away, not only their money very "fooliſhly, but as I verily believe, the future health of their "lives, in hopes of a medical cure for it, from remedies which "are not in nature."

Our author ſuppoſes that the firſt cauſes of the Gout, in common with all other chronic diſeaſes, are Indolence, Intemperance and Vexation; the ſame cauſe which produce the gout in one conſtitution, producing the rheumatiſm, the ſtone, the cholic, the jaundice, or the palſey in others. The Gout, he ſays, is certainly a diſeaſe of the beſt conſtitution; and though he does not venture to ſay what it is, he declares very explicitly what it is not; "It is not, ſays he, hereditary, it is not periodical, it "is not incurable."

That it is not hereditary, he infers from its not being always tranſmitted from the father to the ſon, but he allows that the father's having it, inclines or diſpoſes the ſon to it, becauſe the ſon of a gouty father, more frequently has the gout than others; but this is only the cauſa prædiſponens of the learned, which of itſelf never produced any effect at all; ſo that the ſon of a gouty parent, however diſpoſed to the diſeaſe, would never have it, but in conſequence of his own intemperance, or miſtaken habits of life. He ſays, that whole nations of active people, who knowing no luxury, were for ages free from the Gout, have it now, ſince the Europeans have brought them wine and ſpirits. It is, however, equally true, that there are other nations free from the Gout, who are, and have long been, ſlothful and luxurious, who have long drank wine and ſpirits, and eaten fleſh to the ſame, or a greater exceſs than we do; ſo that there may be the cauſa prædiſponens in climate or local ſituation; and it may be true, that in one country, ſloth, intemperance, and vexation will produce the Gout, as active or efficient cauſes; yet in another country they will not, becauſe the pre-diſpoſing cauſe is wanting.

That the Gout is not periodical, he infers from its not being regular in its returns: Its returns, ſays he, are uncertain, according to the quantity or quality of accumulated indigeſtion within.

He proceeds to ſhew that the Gout is not incurable. "The "Gout ſays he, though incurable by medicine, is ſo far from "being incurable in its nature, that I am firmly perſuaded, it "may be more eaſily and more perfectly cured, than almoſt any "other chronic diſeaſe."

He ſuppoſes, that when a fit is once over, a man has no more Gout, nor ſeeds of Gout in him, than he who never had it; and that if he did not breed it again, he would never have it again.

The humours of the Gout, in his opinion, are nothing more than the daily accumulations of indigeſtion, and if a man can live without conſtantly breeding this indigeſted acrimony he may undoubtedly live free, not only from the Gout, but every other chronic diſeaſe.

Upon theſe principles the Author's intention of cure is manifeſtly no other than to prevent the accretion of acrimony by indigeſtion. This he propoſes, partly by ſtrengthening the digeſtive faculties, partly by proportioning their labour to their power; they are ſtrengthened by exerciſe and peace, and their labour is kept within the compaſs of their ſtrength by temperance.

Our Author conſiders the effects of Indolence, Intemperance, and Vexation, ſeparately, and ſhews the manner in which they are produced, expoſing the groſs abſurdity of believing, that medicine can reſtore to the body that health which theſe have taken away, or produce any laſting effect ſimilar to thoſe of Exerciſe, Temperance, and Contentment.

He obſerves of Intemperance; that it is the fault and miſery of many a good man, who piques himſelf upon being the moſt ſober regular creature alive, who never eats but of one or two plain diſhes as he calls them, nor exceeds his point of Wine at any meal, who keeps good hours, and never ſleeps more than eight or nine. Every man, ſays he, is intemperate, whatever be the quantity or quality of his food, who eats without appetite, or beyond moderate ſatiety, provoked by incentives of any kind; who drinks, without thirſt, for the ſake of the liquor, or indeed who drinks any Wine or ſtrong liquor at all, unleſs medicinally or now and then for the ſake of ſociety and good humour, but by no means every day.

Among incentives to appetite, which produce exceſs in eating, he reckons the common decorations of the table, ſalt, pepper, muſtard, and vinegar. The load which by theſe ſtimulants is laid on the ſtomach, the ſtomach itſelf would ſoon feel, if it was not ſtimulated in its turn by Wine and ſtrong liquors, in conſequence of which what the ſtimulated appetite has forced into the ſtomach, is, by the ſtimulated ſtomach, thrown into the blood; and thus men having eaten too much, are urged, by a kind of neceſſity to drink too much, and the miſchief at once concealed and increaſed.

The Doctor, under the article of intemperance, obſerves, that our fleſh meat in general is over-done; that of meat too much boiled the juices are loſt; and that if it is over-roaſted, fried, or broiled, the action of the fire, being continued too long, changes the mild animal fleſh into ſomething of another quality, renders the fat bitter and rancid, and the ſcorched outſide of the lean dry and acrimonious; upon the whole, he adviſes that our fleſh meat ſhould not be thoroughly done; and remarks, that the Tartars, who eat their meat raw, are free from our diſeaſes; and animals who eat their prey alive amazingly ſtrong and vigorous.

He recommends a mixture of vegetable and animal ſubſtances as the moſt wholeſome food, and ſays, that whatever is hardened or ſeaſoned, ſo as to keep long before it be eaten, ought never to be eaten at all.

Bread, he ſays, is very unwholſome, eſpecially that made in London; it is liable to become acid by the heat of the ſtomach, and contains a ſtrong ferment, which forces into fermentation, every thing that is capable of it. This, he ſays, may be eaſily proved: Put a common toaſt into half a pint of water, and let it ſtand ſix or eight hours near the fire, ſo as to keep in the heat of the human ſtomach, and it will be as ſour as vinegar.

He alſo directs the following eaſy method to diſcover the alum in London bread. Boil a pound of bread in a ſufficient quantity of water to make it as thick as gruel; let it ſtand to ſubſide, pour off the clear, and boil away all the water; the alum will be found at bottom.

Of Wine he ſays, that this alone, of which the ſtrongeſt is the worſt, produces more diſeaſes than all other cauſes put together: that a little does harm in the ſame proportion as much, that the want of it is no leſs artificial than that of ſnuff, and that the ſtomach no more wants the one, than the noſe the other.

He ſtrongly recommends Water as the common drink, and ſuppoſes that mineral waters produce their ſalutary effects merely as water, and not in virtue of their mineral qualities.

He proceeds to enumerate the phyſical bad effects of vexation, loſs of appetite, loſs of ſleep, bad digeſtion, and want of nouriſhment.

He then ſhews, how, in his opinion, the Gout may be cured in moſt of its ſtages and degrees, a preſent fit removed, its return for ever prevented, and the patient eſtabliſhed in perfect health, ſuppoſing him to be a man from forty to fifty, to have had twenty fits of the Gout, to be uneaſy under any motion; to have it ſometimes in his head, ſometimes in his ſtomach, ſometimes all over him, producing univerſal ſickneſs and dejection of mind.

To remove a fit, he propoſes ſome ſoft and ſlowly-operating Laxative, neither hot nor cold, but warm, either in ſmall doſes, repeated ſo as to move the patient once or twice in four and twenty hours, or oftener, according to the ſtrength or exigency; then a few lenient abſorbent correctors of acrimony, or even gentle anodynes with cataplaſms to the part, if neceſſary, and as much mild and ſpontaneouſly diſſolving nouriſhment as may keep the ſpirits from ſinking too low.

When the fit is over, if the patient can neither walk nor ride, he muſt be rubbed all over, as he lies in bed, with flannels fumigated with gums and ſpices, for ten minutes at a time, five or ſix times a day; as ſoon as he is able to walk a hundred yards he muſt do ſo every two hours, and gradually increaſe the diſtance in proportion to his ſtrength, always ſtopping ſhort of fatigue; if he can bear a carriage he ſhould go out in it every day till he begins to be tired: Proceeding thus by degrees, rubbing, walking and riding, till he can walk two or three miles on a ſtretch, or ride ten without any wearineſs at all; he muſt continue this degree of exerciſe daily, if not by walking or riding, by ſome other means, taking at the ſame time ſome well choſen mild antimonial abſorbent, or ſaponaceous deobſtruents or ſweeteners till they ceaſe to be neceſſary.

The food of the patient muſt, at firſt, be new-laid eggs, boiled only till they are juſt hot through, tripe, calves feet, chicken, partridge, rabbets; moſt ſorts of white mild fiſh, as whiting, ſkeat, cod and turbot; all ſorts of ſhell fiſh, and particularly oyſters raw. He will ſoon be ſtrong enough to eat beef, veal, mutton, lamb, pork and veniſon, but they muſt all be kept till they are tender, and eaten with gravies; boiled or ſtewed vegetables, and ſallads of lettuce or endive, but no compounded ſauce or pickles: To theſe may be added light puddings, cuſtards, creams, blanc-manger, and ripe fruits of all kinds, but no Wine during the conteſt with the diſeaſe, afterwards a pint may be taken once, or perhaps twice a week, but not oftener.

If the patient would continue well, he ſhould eat but one moderate meal a day, inſtead of ſupper, taking any good ripe fruit of the ſeaſon. Our author ſays nothing of breakfaſt, which, it is preſumed, muſt be wholly omitted; his body ſhould be rubbed all over, night and morning, his feet ſhould be waſhed every day, he ſhould perſevere in walking three or four miles, or riding ten, or uſing ſome other exerciſe equivalent to theſe every day, lying in bed ſeven hours in ſummer, and eight in winter.

By a regular perſeverance in this method, the Author affirms, that every curable diſeaſe will be cured, among which he reckons the Gout, having thus cured himſelf of it, and emerged from the loweſt ebb of life that a man could poſſibly be reduced to, by Cholic, Jaundice, and a complication of complaints, to a ſtate of perfect health, which he has enjoyed ten years. In his opinion a Cancer itſelf may be cured, if not too far gone, if the patient will ſubmit to this method; for, ſays he, a Cancer is nothing more than a place where Nature depoſits the bad humours of the blood.

This little tract is certainly well worthy the attention, as well of thoſe that are in health, as of thoſe that are diſeaſed. Yet the Author's principles may be brought to this teſt: If they are true, all who abſtain from the conſtant uſe of Wine, drinking only a pint once or twice a week; who eat but one meal without provocatives, to moderate ſatiety, in a day, of fleſh, fiſh, and vegetables; who daily walk three or four miles, or ride ten, or uſe other exerciſe equivalent; who lie in bed but ſeven hours in ſummer, and but eight in winter, will never have the Gout, or any other chronic diſeaſe, except it be brought on by violent or long-continued vexation. or if any ſuch has been contracted by other habits of life, will obtain a perfect cure: and, on the contrary, all who eat more than one meal a day, to the ſatiety of an appetite ſtimulated by pungent incentives, with compounded ſauces, and made diſhes, who drink a pint, or even a leſs quantity of Wine daily; who do not uſe exerciſe equivalent to walking four miles, or riding ten; who lie in bed more than ſeven hours in ſummer, and eight in winter, who are never rubbed, and who do not waſh their feet daily, will have the Gout, or ſome other chronic diſeaſe, though they have ſuffered no violent or long-continued vexation.

That by this teſt the Doctor's principles ſhould appear to be true, is "a conſummation devoutly to be wiſhed." But if they do not abſolutely abide this teſt, they ſeem to form a more rational ſyſtem of chronic diſeaſes, and their cure, than has hitherto appeared.
